

CONSTANTLY IN DANGER

BUT HE RARELY THINKS OF IT

Doctors are so constantly running risk of infection and contagion that they rarely give it a thought. They do the necessary operation, treatment, or make the necessary visit, regardless of risk. That is part of their job, and accepted as such.

Every precaution is taken and every aseptic, sterilizing and preventive measure is employed for the safety of each individual patient, but the Doctor must, in many cases, take a chance on personal safety.

Friends and loved ones may fear and avoid contagion, but the Doctor must carry on—and does as a matter of routine duty.

WEEK OF PRAYER BEING OBSERVED

The annual World Fellowship Week or Week of Prayer, which is observed all over the world this week, is being observed here in Warren by the joint morning service of worship conducted by the Hi-Y club of the YMCA, and the Girls Club of the YWCA. The first of a series of four morning service periods was held this morning at the First Methodist church at 7:45. The leader for the morning was Miss Virginia Parsons. A prologue of organ music was offered by Carroll Fowler. The pianist for the morning was Lois Johnson. Robt. "Pop" Young was the speaker of the morning. The theme for this week's services is "Out of Darkness—Light", and the speaker of the morning centered his thoughts around this theme. Mr. Young stressed the point that life is like a graph, and that it is not a straight line, but that it has many ups and downs, but that despite of the ups and downs how ever great, the one assuring thing is that God always triumphs. He also pointed out that there are two forces always present—Darkness and Light, and he very masterfully appealed that we become lovers of the Light rather than lovers of the Darkness, and as we do that we will find the line of the graph straighten out, rather than have so many ups and downs. The second morning service will be held tomorrow morning at the First Methodist church at 7:45 with Rev. J. A. Davidson of the First Baptist church bringing the morning thought.

These services are open to the public, but the young people are particularly urged to attend. The services adjourn promptly at 8:15 allowing ample time to get to school.

MILD WEATHER AHEAD
Pottstown, Nov. 12.—(P)—Charles Mengel, 74-year-old Pugh-town merchant, says "we're in for a mild winter," and points to caterpillars to back him up. The ones he has seen so far are a light color, and that "means mild weather ahead." "Sometimes you'll find them black at both ends and yellow in the middle," he added. "Then you can bet the winter will start off cold, warm up a spell and end up cold."

New Locomotive Is Placed in Service By Pennsy Railroad

Following its public appearance of two seasons as one of the sensations of the New York World's Fair, the Pennsylvania Railroad's giant coal-burning passenger locomotive "No. 6100", built to pull 14-car trains at 1200 tons at 100-mile speeds, will, with the closing of the exposition, go into regular service hauling the railroad's premier "blue ribbon" trains in and out of Chicago. In this work it will soon become a familiar sight to the communities along the Pennsylvania's main line across northern Indiana and as far east as Crestline, Ohio.

Operating on a treadmill "test plant", and popularly known as "The Big Engine", No. 6100 was viewed with wonder and admiration by literally hundreds of thousands of visitors during both of the Fair's summers. Its mammoth size, its sweeping streamlined contours, and the swift spinning of its four pairs of seven-foot driving wheels, visualized for all who saw it the last word in might and speed of the ultra-modern steam locomotive development.

Who Killed Aunt Maggie?

YESTERDAY: Sally's week end party at her and Bill's country place is already in a tangle. Sally has had a threatening letter. Aunt Maggie and Eve have crashed the party, and somebody has been giving the servants jaked orders. Everybody is trying to ignore the fact that Bob and Claire are the guests of honor, and that Eve is the sinuous beauty who tried to kill Bob, and failed.

Chapter Five
Bent On Trouble
OUR other guests were already in the library and Andrew was passing fresh mint juleps when we got down. A few moments later Aunt Maggie made one of her entrances, stately in black lace. Just behind her was Eve, wearing a dinner dress of heavy red satin that did almost too much for her figure. I knew she had worn it with Claire's red-hair in mind. But Claire, in green velvet, must have smiled to herself if she shared my thought.

"If any of us could look ahead," said Bob. "I'm so happy about you and Claire," I told him. "Thanks, Sally," he said, tossing off his drink and pouring himself another without even a pause between. "You know how I've always felt about Claire's money. Nearly always in debt, too. But I'm getting that cleared up—little revenue from an old investment. Oh, well, I don't need to be talking like this to you."

"Of course not," I agreed, and suddenly I knew that it was Claire who had managed this new solvency to pave the way for their engagement. Ever so cleverly ever so indirectly, no doubt, so Bob would never in the world suspect. But, knowing Claire, I was sure, I recognized her fine Italian hand back of it all. I wondered why she had not thought of it before.

Bob's Weakness
WITH a whimsical smile at the drink he still held in his hand, Bob said, "Well, I'm going to turn over a new leaf. Going to settle down. Going to be serious."

Bundles for Britain Chapter Hears Fine Reports of Excellent Work Accomplished

A representative group gathered last evening at the YWCA activities building for the meeting of the Warren Chapter of Bundles for Britain, despite bad weather and its being a holiday.

At the request of the chairman, Miss Gene Alden Walker, it was decided that the executive committee should include officers and committee heads, so that this committee now consists of the following:

Miss Walker, chairman; Mrs. J. W. A. Luce, secretary; Holgar Elmquist, treasurer; knitting division chairman, Mrs. Melvin Keller; assistant, Miss Doris Gamble;

Roosevelt Armistice Wreath for Unknown Soldier

129 are in the making; Mrs. Logan reporting on sales and the benefit tea which provided $400 for blood transfusion apparatus. It was felt that these reports constituted an admirable record for one month's work.

The chairman stressed the urgency of continuing to send more garments and of making the vitally necessary hospital garments, and of the necessity for raising funds to carry on the work. She showed that funds raised in the bake sale had been exhausted by the purchase of 400 hanks of wool for garments mentioned above.

The sales chairman, Mrs. Logan, spoke of plans for another benefit to be held early in December in the North Warren community house. The complete details to be announced soon.

Its Tranquil Days Are Numbered

Rural tranquility reigns over the little community of Hamburg, Mo., in the photo above, but the town's calm existence soon will end. For Hamburg, together with the towns of Mechanicsville, Howell and Townerville, including adjacent farms and cemeteries, will soon be obliterated, to be replaced by army munition plants. The plants, costing $10,000,000, will occupy an 18,000-acre tract whose clearing will affect 500 land-owning and tenant families.

Chairman of Bundles for Britain Chapter Appeals for Assistance

Miss Gene Alden Walker, chairman of the Warren Chapter of Bundles for Britain, has asked the Times-Mirror to publish the following appeal and open letter "to the people of Warren":

"The intensified bombings of London and renewed attacks on English shipping, together with the cold and fog of winter, make it imperative that we of Bundles for Britain redouble our efforts during this month of November. We must do it NOW—before we become too deeply engrossed in our own plans for the holiday season to send tangible expressions of sympathy, comfort and cheer to the people of Britain in time for THEIR Christmas.

What can we do? We can send our gifts of clothing and medical supplies and money to the civilians and fighting forces in England. Let us, therefore, dig deeper into our cupboards for warm garments to clothe the men, women and children who have lost their homes and who are spending long nights in cold underground shelters. Let us dig deeper into our pockets to give what we can to support the benefits large and small given to raise funds for the purchase of materials to be made into hospital garments and more wool to be knitted into more garments for the men valiantly fighting the battle of Britain.

Every man, woman and child in Warren will have a chance in this month to answer the challenge of the blitzkrieg. The American way is to rush the needed things to the homeless, the maimed, the shell-toned—to see that a steady stream is kept going to England's shores. It is our duty and our privilege to relieve the suffering of our fellow democracy.

In the words of the great Polish patriot and pianist, Paderewski, who arrived in New York on Wednesday on his 80th birthday: "Believe me: Not hatred, not a low instinct of revenge, but love of all that is noble and lofty in human nature, love of my poor oppressed country as well as love of all untimely suffering people in Europe, my earnest concern about the imminent danger threatening our civilization, gives me the courage to share freely with you my hopes and my apprehensions. They all can be put into one slogan: 'Help Great Britain—Save the World!'

Bundles for Britain was born so that all who wanted to do something—those who felt helpless and

Just about a year ago Pittsburgh established new attendance records at the 1939 national championships tournament. Naturally I could not resist their invitation to attend the recent Pennsylvania State Tournament there. The first event on the program was the women's pair championship, won by Mrs. E. L. Smith and Mrs. C. F. Puszynski of Pittsburgh. The runners-up were Mrs. Grace Lear and Mrs. E. B. Culp, also of Pittsburgh.

One of the interesting hands in this event is shown today and demonstrates the importance of the deuce.

The opening lead was won with the king of spades by declarer, who then cashed four club tricks. West discarded the five of diamonds and East the three of hearts and deuce of diamonds.

Declarer's problem now was which suit to tackle. Not wanting to guess wrong, she cashed her ace of spades and led the ten-spot, as she knew from the lead of the deuce of spades that West could have only two more spades.

West cashed the two spades, North discarding a diamond and South a heart. West unkindly led a small heart, and when dummy played the eight East played the ten, forcing the ace. But a return of the nine of hearts and a finesse against the jack left the opponents unable to prevent declarer from winning an extra heart or diamond.

Thirty Years Study Of Water Flow Reported In Flood Control Booklet

Findings of 30-years study of waterflow retardation are compiled in a new progress report—Influences of Vegetation and Watershed Treatments on Run-Off. Silt-Stream Flow—issued jointly by the Forest Service and Conservation Service, United States Department of Agriculture. The report sums up studies of work done on land to retard run-off and curb erosion in aid of flood control.

Surface run-off of rainfall varies considerably with cleared and forested land, according to the report. Studies on sample plots in northern Mississippi, for example, showed that surface run-off from land in cultivation was 127 times greater than that from forest land for the period of observation, and that the amount of soil carried off was more than 900 times greater. Similarly in regions of heavy snow, forest cover retards melting in the spring, lessening destructive run-off.

The superior physical condition of forest soils for water absorption was demonstrated by studies made in the Ohio valley. At a 3-inch depth 14 times as much water was absorbed per minute by the forest as by the field soil; and at a 1-inch depth more than 70 times as much. It was also shown that favorable soil porosity returns to old fields after forest planting.

Field crops in many parts of the country, the report states, have access throughout the growing season to a supply of soil moisture sufficient for optimum growth. Much of this lack of soil moisture during the growing season can be directly attributed to high run-off, which, through the application of water-conservation practices on the land, could be materially alleviated.

Although the rate, quantity and occurrence of rain are beyond man's control, a degree of control can be exercised over its subsequent behavior after the rain reaches the land surface. The report states, improved conservation practices applicable to farm and forest lands to control run-off and prevent soil erosion are being worked out through various research projects and investigations of the Department of Agriculture. In Europe, many years ago watershed improvement surveys have control. The first reports of surveys authorized under this act as a basis for flood control operations are being completed by the Department of Agriculture.

The report has been published as Miscellaneous Publications No. 397. Copies of the new bulletin are available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, at 15c each.

Missionary Groups Of St. Paul's Have Unusual Gathering

A charming missionary festival was held Monday evening in St. Paul's Lutheran church under the auspices of the several missionary units of the parish and with Mrs. Emil Jacobson in charge.

Over 200 members and friends gathered to hear Dr. Betty Nilsson, who has been for 30 years the head physician at a hospital in Rajahmundry, India, in addition to a very fine talk, Dr. Nilsson showed three reels of movies on missionary work in India, with special stress on the medical work.

Prior to her talk, Miss Virginia Davis, soprano, sang "The Holy City" by Adam, with accompaniment by Miss Lois Johnson, Miss Paul Yeagle conducted a brief devotional period.

Local guests, with others from Sheffield, Ludlow and Chlanders Valley, were then invited to the dining room, where refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Swanson, Mrs. Ed Munson, Mrs. Marvin Shows and Mrs. Walter Johnson, and their aides. Presiding at the very attractive table were Mrs. Yeagle and Mrs. Jacobson, presidents of the missionary groups.

Many had the opportunity to greet and visit with the guest speaker at this time.

Dr. Nilsson was the overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Jacobson, 505 Conewango avenue, and left today for Titusville, where she will speak this evening.

Who Killed Aunt Maggie?

By MEDORA FIELD

YESTERDAY: Sally and Bill party at their country house to celebrate the engagement of Claire and Bob has been complicated by the fact that Aunt Maggie and Eve have come unwelcome. Mrs. Brannen, the girl who tried for Bob and failed. She had twitted him with his gambling losses, and to save the situation Bill has announced that he just has heard that Hugh Brannen, whom they all know, has been kidnapped.

Chapter Six

Aunt Maggie's Turn
HUGH BRANNEN is one of our richest citizens and a philanthropist. We could not remember anybody ever having been kidnapped in Atlanta before. Certainly nobody we knew.

"I heard it from Paul Mitchell, of The Journal," said Bill. "I heard it from just got the story. It seems Mrs. Brannen was driving to the office in his car about being a guest at Little Bulloch's wedding at Bulloch Hall when she married Theodore Roosevelt. Grandmother said they brought ice for the wedding all the way from Savannah. Atlanta wasn't much of a place in those days." applauded Kirk, who always egged Aunt Maggie on.

"That's all very pretty," Eve interrupted, "but what became of the jade? Is it still in the secret room? I claim my share as a descendant if it is found."

Warned by Aunt Maggie's flush, I hastily began to explain that, as remembered the story, the jade had been sold after the Civil War when the family hadn't much else to carry on with.

But while Aunt Maggie's tone was low-pitched, I could still hear her admonishing Eve. "Don't give yourself airs, Evelyn Pruitt. You are not a descendant. Your great-great-grandfather was only a cousin of the Graham who built this house. You are descended from the black sheep of the family."

"Was the jade very valuable?" Claire asked politely.

Called Out
"I DON'T know," Aunt Maggie admitted regretfully. "He had been a great traveler. I remember hearing that he thought more of his jade than he did of this whole plantation and maybe his family. He kept a journal in which he set down most of his expenditures, but never what he spent for jade. He was also a great reader. He assembled most of the books in this library. It was in one of them that I..."

Just then Andrew came in to collect the coffee things. "Excuse me, Miss Maggie, ma'am," he said, "but here's one of your papers you dropped. Leastwise, I think it is. It looks like one of them old papers you are always working over."

No duels could have smiled with more conscious graciousness as the men arose. And so, bidding us an inclusive good night, Aunt Maggie swept from the room.

Eve immediately launched into a dissertation on jade. I was not surprised when the group began to melt away. "Some powder," as a polite excuse. "A spot of brandy." Soon only Eve and I were left.

"Let's round up the others and go down and try the new game room," I said, when the subject of jade and I were both exhausted.

"I'd like a little powder," said Eve. "I'll just speak to Bessie a moment." I answered.

Bessie's ideas and mine agree perfectly about breakfast. Now we could not decide between chicken hash or country sausage with waffles, so we compromised on both.

And you know, Miss Sally? Bessie reminded me. "Mr. Bill ain't had nothing, lessen they's eggs."

"All right, scrambled eggs and some of that Virginia ham. And oh, yes, Bessie, you brought along some of those fig preserves, didn't you?"

"Yes'm, and a jar of that wild-strawberry jam, too."

"Fine. I'll have some of both." This conference could not have consumed more than a few minutes. Leaving the big, spicily-smelling kitchen, which originally had been the dining room, I passed on into the breakfast room. The original kitchen had been a detached building, as was the case with so many ante-bellum houses. Cutting off, at the back, part of the long central hall to use as a breakfast room had been one of the changes made since the place came into our possession.

I was thinking of all this, as I gave the room a final appraising glance before stepping out into the little back passageway beyond, with its steps leading down to the basement and the new game room. From the basement way, back steps led upward. Two other doors open into it, one leading to the office, another to the back porch.

In the passage I stumbled over something that blocked my way. There on the floor at my feet lay Aunt Maggie.

New York, Nov. 12.—(A.P.)—If Brooklyn's baseball fans don't get to see the Dodgers in the World Series next year, there's one standing complaint they won't be able to use—that the club won't put up the money to buy the kind of ball players it needs to win.

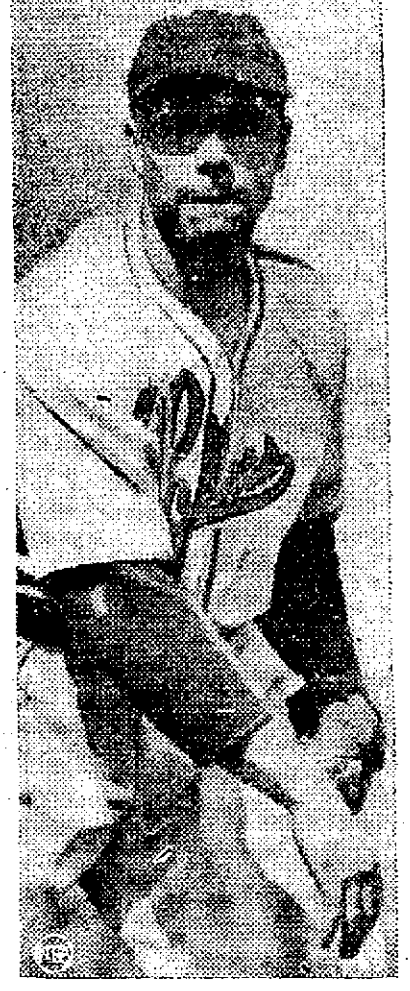

With the purchase of Pitcher Kirby Higbe from the Phillies yesterday, the Brooklyn Boss, Larry MacPhail, became the successor to Tom Yawkey of the Boston Gold Sox as baseball's freest spender. He has been the buyer in the two biggest deals of the past year.

Just how much money the Dodgers paid for the 25-year-old right hander wasn't announced, but the best estimates put it at $100,000. Brooklyn also sent Vito Tamulis and Bill Crouch, pitchers, and Thompson Livingston, a catcher drafted from Springfield of the Eastern League, to the Phils. The combination of cash and players comes close to fitting the $150,000 price tag that owner Gerry Nugent had placed upon his star hurler.

Brooklyn's other big venture into the ivory market was last June, when the Dodgers sent cash and four players to the St. Louis Cardinals for Joe Medwick and Curt Davis in what was figured as a $200,000 deal.

While he wouldn't come right out and claim the purchase of Higbe would assure the Dodgers of the 1941 pennant, MacPhail hinted broadly when he said the club's greatest need was a 20-game winner, and that he believed Brooklyn would have won last season if Higbe had been on the squad.

We have made a survey of the All-America teams recognized by the Associated Press starting with Walter Camp's 1889 team. If your name begins with "Q" or "X" you'll hang up some sort of record if you're elected this year.

Farley Talks Yankee Purchase in Cleveland

James A. Farley, former Democratic National Committee chairman, got a Republican welcome to Cleveland when he arrived for conference with broker Smith Davis, center, on purchase of the New York Yankees. On hand to greet Farley was George Bender, left, chairman of the Republican county committee.

Except to accountants, economists, household budgeteers and the more avid football and baseball fans, statistics are pretty dull stuff. As far back as the early years of the 17th century, Oliver Cromwell, who probably was in none of the above classifications, observed that "A few honest men are better than numbers," and we are not inclined to believe he was alluding to referees or umpires as against the supply of reserves sitting on the bench. Nevertheless, at the risk of boring our readers even more than is our custom, we'd like to direct their attention to the statistics box inserted in the account of yesterday's contest, for therein lies the secret to the success of the Dragons. You may pass down through the first downs, the yards gained by rushing and passing, etc., and glance at the items marked "fumbles" and "own fumbles," etc., and you will note that during the hostilities there were no fewer than eight occasions when the muddy, slimy, slippery leather was out of control and the target for 22 very determined, very husky young gladiators. Of these fumbles, five were committed by the Bulldogs and three by the Dragons, but on all except one occasion the ball was found to be stowed away by a blue and white clad warrior.

Nearly every fumble was at a crucial moment. The first, by Meadville Halfback Bill Craine, was recovered by Walt Fredericks on the Bulldog 21 and put the visitors in a hole from which they were unable to crawl successfully. It was the punt from deep in their own territory which was blocked by Fredericks and recovered for a touchdown by Brown. The second, also by Craine, halted the Bulldogs on the threat in which they came the closest to the Warren goal. Landers had caught a punt on the local three and booted out only to the 23. Montana hit the line to go to the 21 and then Craine let the ball slip out of his hands. Vic Huffman dropping on it. The third was late in the second period when it appeared that nothing could stop Montana, who ripped off gains of six and five yards to bring the ball to the Warren 20 and a first down. Then "Bull" fumbled and Jack Karl hauled it in on the 31, the Dragons retaining possession until Landers kicked well out of danger. Craine fumbled again in the third period in his own territory, but it was harmless and resulted in just a "no gain" as he picked it up immediately and hit the line. Saggio's fumble of a punt, recovered by Fredericks, permitted the Dragons to not only get out of their own danger zone, but to force the play into Meadville's backyard just when the Bulldogs were striving desperately to get within striking distance. Standing on his 25, Landers kicked and the boot was partially blocked, but Saggio couldn't hold it on the Warren 40, as Walt came through fast and snatched the ball. Landers then punted to the Meadville 30 and the pressure was off.

We'd also like to point out the enormous part in the victory played by Landers' toe. The job of kicking was the toughest assignment on the field, except perhaps for the receiving, and Landers handled them both capably. It was hard to hold the ball sufficiently long to boot it back, and none of the fans would have blamed the halfback had he fumbled occasionally or had his punts been of only fair distance. He bobbled but once and recovered himself. Only one of his 14 punts was blocked (speaking well for the line as well as for the kicker's speed in getting the ball away). And he came up with prodigious punts of 62, 66 and 74 yards, with others of 20 to 28 yards. And another factor in the Warren victory was the smart generalship which called for punts on third down, instead of Meadville's kickers, throughout the game. It was, from all angles, a fine climax to an unexpectedly successful scholastic season, and a pat on the back goes from this pillar to each of the Dragons who played a part in the 1940 campaign.

YEARS AGO IN SPORT
November 12, 1920—The much-touted Youngsville football team fazed out against the local Independents yesterday afternoon, and when dusk fell on Russell Field the score was 56 to 15. Art Ostrygard, who has been suffering with an injury most of the season, insisted on playing in the game and the injury was aggravated.
November 12, 1930—The St. Joseph Cadets were toppled yesterday afternoon by the Liberty A. C. of Jamestown, 7-6. Joe Brindis juggled the ball across for the Cadets, while a pass from Platz to Tabone was good for the Jamestown conversion after Platz had scored the touchdown.

GOPHERS OUST BIG RED FROM LEAD IN A. P. WEEKLY POLL BY HANDING WOLVERINES THEIR FIRST DEFEAT

New York, Nov. 12.—(A.P.)—Minnesota's Golden Gophers, who don't win by much, but don't let that stop them from winning, gave another close decision today by adding Cornell to a list of victims that already included Washington, Nebraska, Northwestern and Michigan.

The Gophers ousted Cornell from the lead in the fast-closing race to determine the country's No. 1 football team. After Cornell had been on top for four successive weeks in the Associated Press ranking poll, the tide swung Minnesota's way this week as 55 out of 148 experts from coast to coast put Minnesota at the head of the list and one other split the honors among Minnesota, Cornell and 1939's top team, Texas A. and M.

These three placed in that order: Minnesota, first with 1,314 points; Cornell, second with 1,200; the Aggies, third with 1,202. Fourth place went to Stanford, on 1,000 points, with 1,066.

Minnesota plays two Western Conference rivals, Purdue this Saturday and then Wisconsin, and Cornell has dates with ancient Ivy League foes, Dartmouth and Oberlin, once-lit Penn. Their tasks, comparatively, do not look as tough as the assignments facing the Texas Aggies, who still must get by Rice and Texas, and Stanford, which has up-and-coming Oregon State and California on its slate.

The two games of this week, however, should be those involving four lower-ranked members of the first ten. At Ann Arbor, it will be sixth-place Michigan against tenth-place Northwestern, the teams Minnesota beat by one point each, fighting for runner-up spot in the "Big Nine" and a possible shot at the title, if the Gophers should slip.

At Boston, it will be eighth-place Boston College against ninth-place Georgetown, the only game of the week involving two major teams which are unbeaten and untied and the one that should prove once and for all just how highly these clubs, which so far have breezed by mediocre opposition, deserve to be ranked. It should, by all accounts, be a close one. (Turn to Page Ten)

SHEFFIELD IN UPSET VICTORY OVER BECKMEN

Sheffield, Nov. 12.—Fired by a spirit never before displayed by them this season, an aroused Sheffield H. eleven rose to unexpected heights in their traditional game with the Youngsville H. Eagles here Armistice Day afternoon and won their highly favored rival from the other end of the county, 12 to 6.

Forced to punt, Sheffield's Anderson booted the ball to Harold Thompson on Youngsville's 35 and Harold fumbled the slippery oval, Schmedlin recovering for the locals. After two line plays had netted only 2 yards, Pochatko dropped back and cut loose with a forward which John Sorvell grabbed on the 2-nd line and slidded across for a touchdown. Pochatko's pass fell in the end zone.

The Orange and Black continued to dominate the play and, late in the second quarter, had another chance to score when Albaugh recovered a Youngsville fumble on the latter's 22. The Wolverines, however, could get only as far as the 14 before they lost the ball on downs.

Youngsville took over and on the very first play Harold Thompson booted through a big hole at right tackle and sped 86 yards through the mud for the tying touchdown. He hit the same tackle spot on the try for point but failed by a foot of making the distance.

The victory-starved Drummondmen came back lighting in the second half, and, halfway through the third session, notched the game-winning touchdown when Pochatko wheeled around right end and galloped 50 yards to touchdown territory. It did not matter that the locals failed to convert, for they successfully staved off all succeeding bids by the enemy. (Turn to Page Ten)

FORTE IS ASSURED BOUT WITH CHAMPION

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—(A.P.)—Tommy Forte was virtually assured today of a crack at Lou Salica's bantamweight boxing championship.

Hymie Caplin, Salica's manager, said he had promised Promoter Herman Taylor first chance to arrange a title bout between Forte and Salica.

"I've offers for Salica to meet Benny Goldberg in Detroit, Small Montana in Toronto and Johnny Juliano in Paterson, N. J.," said Caplin, "but Herman here comes first."

Caplin was among the 7,000 who saw Forte, Philadelphia 119-pounder, win a 10-round decision from Joey Archibald, former featherweight champion from Providence, at the Arena last night. Archibald weighed 123.

It was Forte's second straight major victory. He beat Salica in a non-title affair several weeks ago.

Mounting Toll in Poisoning

morgue for chemical analysis. The few men who partook only of bacon and coffee were the only ones who escaped the poison.

Sam Fowkes, 71, a coal miner who was taken to a hospital, gave the following story:

"This is terrible. The Army has always fed us well. We know it's just a mistake. But it was awful. I don't remember much about the thing except that suddenly I was in such pain I just threw myself down on the concrete floor and rolled over and over."

Dr. Robert Kooser, resident physician at St. Francis Hospital said the roach powder—sodium fluoride—is "a terrible poison."

"It destroys the blood cells," he said.

Officials said sodium fluoride is a quick-acting white substance that might easily be mistaken for flour or baking powder. As soon as the poison was determined, hospitals swiftly treated the victims with its antidote—calcium chloride.

Wilson, the new cook said:

"When I heard the men were getting sick, I didn't know what to do. I had eaten a couple of cakes myself, so I mixed myself a shot of baking soda to make me vomit."

"I also gave soda to the other boys as they got sick."

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—(AP)—A former cook at the Pittsburgh-Walsh center where 12 men died and 52 were made ill by food poisoning yesterday was held by Philadelphia police today for questioning.

He was taken into custody last night by detectives at the request of Pittsburgh officers, en route here. Detective Inspector Walter Monaghan of Pittsburgh said he was wanted for questioning "because of some threats that he made."

Philadelphia officers said the cook told them he has been living here since Oct. 12, shortly after he was discharged from the Pittsburgh center. The center said the man left with no particular grudge and had been corresponding with acquaintances there.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Lawrence Mertz, 43, former cook at a Pittsburgh center last October, was held without bail today for Pittsburgh police, who said they wanted to question him in connection with the food poisoning deaths of 12 men there yesterday.

Mertz, who appeared before Magistrate N. Edwin Lindell, declared he would be glad to accompany officers back to Pittsburgh.

"I have nothing to be afraid of," he said. "I didn't do it."

Mertz was discharged as a cook at the Pittsburgh center last October 9 and Philadelphia police said he came here October 12 and has been employed as a butcher at a Salvation Army center here.

Byrnes Likely Candidate For Pittman Place

Clark, who has opposed the administration's foreign policies, might draw some support from Democratic ranks and also from the Republican camp, providing the Republicans themselves do not enter a candidate. The entire senate elects the president pro tempore, but almost invariably the man is a member of the majority party.

Another question confronting senate Democrats was the choice of a successor to Senator Minton (D-Ind), majority whip who was defeated for reelection. Minton goes out of office in January. Senator Hill (D-Ala), assistant whip, appeared to have the edge here.

Extensive changes in senate standing committees also are in sight, when the new congress meets.

Senator George (D-Ga) was considered the probable successor to Pittman as head of the powerful foreign relations committee. Since no senator may serve as chairman of two committees, George's elevation to the foreign relations post automatically would terminate his chairmanship of the privileges and elections committee. That place might then go to Senator Connally (D-Tex), but he in turn would have to give up the leadership of the public buildings and grounds group. Otherwise, Senator Hatch (D-NM) probably would be in line for it since Democrats who outrank him all are heads of important committees.

Chairmanship of the judiciary committee, left vacant by the primary defeat of Senator Ashurst (D-Ariz), appeared to lie either with Senator McCarran (D-Nev) or Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind), both opponents of President Roosevelt's 1937 supreme court reorganization bill. The two senators became members of the committee on the same day. Chairmanships ordinarily are awarded on the basis of seniority of service with a committee.

A vacancy in the chairmanship of the claims committee, brought about by the defeat of Sen. Brown (D-Neb) in the primary election probably will be filled by Senator Brown (D-Mich.).

Minton's defeat also left vacant the chairmanship of pensions committee, a place which may go to Senator Schwartz (D-Wyo.).

Senator Byrd (D-Va) was regarded as the most likely choice for head of the rules committee to succeed Neely (D-W. Va.) who will leave the senate in January to become governor of West Virginia.

The company, situated on Woodbridge avenue between this community and Port Reading, manufactures railroad track torpedoes, flares and similar equipment.

Kimberling said it employed about 100 workers, mostly girls.

A heavy rainstorm and low flying clouds hid the blast from passengers on commercial airlines which arrived in New York City shortly afterward.

Police Chief Henry J. Harrington of adjacent Carteret said he alone had helped carry out five bodies.

Rescue work was going on all around him, he said, and he knew there were other dead.

Estimates by rescue workers ranged anywhere from six to 25.

Two hours after the explosion firemen and rescue squads were still prowling through the wreckage, looking for possible victims.

Coroner J. J. Flynn of Middlesex county started an investigation in an effort to determine the cause.

The explosion, third serious one in New Jersey in the past two months, occurred about the time the day shift was coming in. State police said there was no estimate of how many were in the plant at the time. A state trooper at the scene reported he had seen two bodies taken from the wreckage.

On September 12 an explosion at the Hercules Powder Corporation plants at Dover killed 50 persons and on September 23 two were killed and 11 injured in a blast at the United States Army arsenal at Picatinny.

Lancaster, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Anna Louise Glick, four-year daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Glick, of Kinzler, died in Lancaster General Hospital early today from eating poison which police said she had obtained from a kitchen cabinet in her home Saturday night.

Willkie Turns Down Idea Of "United Front"

tion speculation that he might be offered a federal post in the interest of national unity, Willkie made it plain that the American form of government was not designed to embrace such a conception.

"This would mean," he said, "that in the United States of America there would be only one dominant party—only one economic philosophy—only one political philosophy of life. This is a totalitarian idea—it is a slave idea—it must be rejected utterly."

"A vital element in the balanced operation of democracy is a strong, alert and watchful opposition. That is our task for the next four years. We must constitute ourselves a vigorous, loyal and public-spirited opposition party."

Chief among dangers facing the nation, Willkie said, is inflation. To counteract this and "to correct some economic errors," he proposed five steps:

1. Cut to the bone federal expenditures except the national defense and necessary relief.

2. Allow private capital "as far as possible" to build the plants and machinery for defense.

3. Levy taxes approaching "as nearly as possible" the pay-as-you-go plan.

4. Take the brakes off private enterprise by adjusting taxes and government restrictions to give freedom "under wise regulation" to release new investments and new energies, thus increasing national income.

5. A change by the government of its "punitive attitude toward both little and big businessmen."

shop of the Middlesex Water Company, adjoining the signal plant. Injured included persons in their homes nearby and on the street.

Windows were shattered over a radius of a quarter-mile, almost without exception, while many were broken in Bayonne, eleven miles away.

John Costello, undertaker for whose morgue the first five dead were taken, said the bodies were horribly mutilated. He expressed belief one was that of a woman. Some were decapitated; others lost limbs.

Coroner J. J. Flynn of Middlesex county and Police Chief George E. Keating of Woodbridge started investigations in an effort to learn the cause of the blast.

He blast felt the extent of the blast which swamped police and newspaper offices with telephone calls in nearly every municipality in the metropolitan area.

The 100-by-200 foot main plant of the corporation located about 15 miles from downtown Manhattan, N. Y., and the same distance from Newark, was completely wrecked, Lakis said.

Perth Amboy General Hospital reported between ten and twenty persons had been brought in for treatment and Rahway Hospital said "quite a number" were rushed there and "they are in pretty bad shape."

Superintendent Mark O. Kimberling of the state police said at Trenton early reports from troopers at the scene indicated there were about 20 dead.

The company, situated on Woodbridge avenue between this community and Port Reading, manufactures railroad track torpedoes, flares and similar equipment.

New Public Use Map Published for Cook Forest Park Section

Harrisburg, Nov. 12—A new Public Use Map of the Kittanning State Forest and Cook Forest Park in Jefferson, Forest, Clarion and Elk counties has been issued by the Department of Forests and Waters and is available for free distribution.

Cook Forest Park contains one of the last stands of virgin pine and hardwood in the state, some of the oldest trees ranging from 200 to 250 years. The park contains over 6,000 acres located along the winding Clarion River, portions of it lying in Clarion, Forest and Jefferson counties. The dense growth of laurel, rhododendron, ferns, moss and wild flowers growing in the forest environment, with the majestic pines and hardwood makes an appeal to all those who enjoy the outdoors. Miles of trails and good roads make the park easily accessible and excellent views may be obtained from Cook Forest Fire Tower and Seneca Rocks.

Nearby, in the large block of State Forest land, is located Clear Creek Recreational Area, where a swimming pool with bath house and sandy beach, picnicking facilities and a number of cabins which may be rented for the public. At the head of Clear Creek Valley is a very interesting geographic formation known as Bear Town Rocks from the top of which a magnificent view of the surrounding country may be obtained. Clear Creek is a natural trout stream, containing not only old native trout but also stocked legal trout. This entire State Forest block abounds in game of all descriptions and is of course open to hunting. In the Kittanning State Forest more than 1,600,000 forest trees have been planted, supplementing the natural restoration of what was once primeval forest.

Yesterday's victory was the second of the season as against six defeats for the Wolverines, but the win was doubly pleasing to the Orange and Black for it not only removed some of the sting from a losing season but it evened the Youngsville-Sheffield series at 9 victories each. The loss was the 4th of the year for the Eagles, who have won 6.

The contest ended the 1940 campaign for both teams and the scholastic playing careers of the following players. Gurdak, Harold and Howard Thompson and Steve Gentile, of Youngsville; Albaugh, John, Sorvelli, John, Lloyd, McGuire, Burns, Otto Olson, Anderson, Paul, Pochatko and Lelov, of Sheffield.

Gophers Out Big Red From Lead in A. P. Weekly Poll

A throwback to the old Boston College-Holy Cross clamor that was a New England tradition for bruising play.

The other two first-tenners seem to have a distinct edge over their Saturday rivals. Tennessee heading for its third straight regular season without a loss and ranked fifth this week, will meet Virginia while seventh-place Notre Dame will take on oft-beaten Iowa.

The makeup of the first ten went unchanged from a week ago. The reshuffling saw Minnesota and Cornell change places, Texas A. and M. come up from fourth and Stanford from sixth, Michigan drop down from third, and Tennessee, Notre Dame, Boston College, Georgetown and Northwestern retain their positions.

major problem, but in that department the Dragons were supreme, fumbling only three times and recovering their own fumble on each occasion. The Bulldogs had five fumbles and the hard-charging Dragons picked up four of them. Three when the Banhart combine was on the march, Fredericks recovered two as well as a fumble by a Warren back, Karl dropped on another and Vic Huffman nailed the fourth.

Couch Banhart threw his entire strength at the Dragons, even using his ace, John "Bull" Montana who, it was expected, would not see action because of an injury. Montana was in there three quarters and well into the fourth before he was relieved and accounted for most of the game. Even the driving power of the big fullback could not consistently push the Dragons back, and only once during the entire game did the Bulldogs reach the area within the 20-yard line. They got to the 21 after a kick by Maziarz had been grounded on the Warren three and Landers could boot it back only to the 23. On that occasion, Craune fumbled and Huffman recovered. The Dragons also were unsuccessful in advancing, registering only one first down, that on a 14 yard plunge by "Sting" Brown. Meadville gained seven, but none went near pay dirt.

The dash by Brown gave Warren its best scoring opportunity of the afternoon, except for the blocked punt. Maziarz, in the third period, had kicked to the Meadville 42 after Landers for the 14th time had set the Bulldogs back on their heels with a long punt. A pass by Tamburine was incomplete, but "Spinner" Johnson went through center for five and Brown sloshed to the 22. Tamburine picked up five off tackle, but Johnson was thrown for a four-yard loss in the same spot and a pass was knocked down after Brown had failed to make a yard.

The Dragons were also near the pay dirt shortly after their touchdown, due to the lusty toe of Landers. Meadville had a first down on the Warren 49, but Huffman slid through to drop Montana four yards behind the line and Harding and Fredericks did the same job with Craune on the next play. Saggio punted out of bounds on the Warren 31, and after the Blue and White had failed on two attempts, Landers punted the heavy, soggy ball 74 yards (64 from the scrimmage line). Brown dropping on it on the Meadville 5, Maziarz could get it out only to the 29, but the Dragons went a bare six yards on three attempts.

Landers' kicking was one of the principal features, the speed back averaging 27 yards (from scrimmage line) despite unfavorable conditions and the fact that one punt was blocked. The defensive work done by Walt Fredericks was up to his usual standard, which is high praise, but the big guard had plenty of help from the rest of the forewall, notably from Brown, Jack Karl, Vic Huffman and Jim Harding. Bill Sperry was through fast on several occasions and was in to block a punt at a good spot. Rydholm also did a good defensive job, his side of the line appearing to be much the stronger, as he and Karl ganged up on Montana and Craune, the principal threats in the Meadville backfield.

While Zahrauski, Graham Tamburine, the Johnsons and Landers failed to shake themselves loose, the whole backfield did a beautiful bit of defending, permitting only one completed pass and that for no gain. Tamburine and "Spinner" Johnson accounted for the principal gains by rushing, and the for-

PRICE ADVANCE IN THREE GRADES OF PENNA CRUDE

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Pittsburgh the Joseph Seep Agency of the South Penn Oil Co. today announced a boost of 15 cents a barrel, effective today, on the price of three grades of Pennsylvania Grade crude. The new prices are:

Bradford-Allegany	$2.00
Oil City-Titusville	$1.98-88
Southwest Penna.	$1.65
Eureka	$1.59

The increase was the first this year and followed four cuts that dropped the price on Bradford-Allegany crude from $2.75 to $1.55. Oil men say the boost was due to refinery demand, which in the past few weeks has been greater than production. Regarding the increase, the Oil City Derrick comments:

The increase is the first made in the price of region crude since the first of the year when Bradford crude mounted to $2.75, close to a 10-year high. Since then there have been four successive reductions, three of 25 cents and the last of 15 cents. The rise in price thus reverses the trend which has been in effect since May 22 when the first price reduction of the year was posted.

The rise lifts the price back to the level enjoyed from July 12 to August 22, when the last cut was made. That reduction was initiated by a refiner and was followed by other firms which post prices. The fact that a refiner initiated the reduction was deemed significant and pointed to the condition of the refiners, who, at that time had felt that staggering loss of 20 to 25 per cent of their outlets for lubricants, due to the loss of European markets since the war.

strongly, saying he believed he "can pitch the Dodgers to the pennant," and that he would win 20 games for them. Then he sprang the bad news—that he intends to ask for a $15,000 salary. Higbe broke into major league baseball with the Chicago Cubs in 1937, was farmed out to Birmingham for a year and then was traded to the Phillies in 1939. In two seasons with the last-place club, he won 26 games and lost 34. Eight of his 19 defeats last season were by one-run margins, and he led the league in strikeouts with 137.

NEVER REPEATED
Only once in history, during Lincoln's term, were five living ex-presidents of the United States known. This unusual number was a result largely of the fact that no President elected between 1836 and 1860 served more than four years.

About 186,000 motor vehicles will be needed by the War Department to transport 1,400,000 men.

MEN OF MEDICINE BY PAUL BRAUNSCHWEIGER Of The Mullen Drug Co.

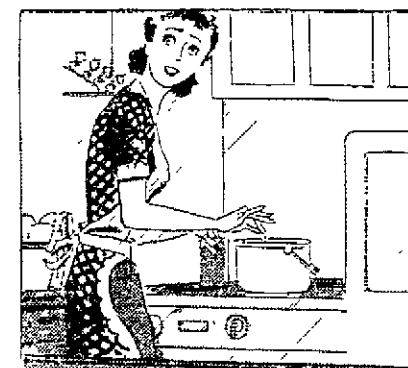

Thousands of years ago the great poet Ovid admonished humanity that "medicine comes too late when disease has too long been neglected."

What really do you know of the doctor who may be your chief standby when disease strikes in your home? What do you know of any doctor? You date to select with meticulous care a family physician whom you can confide in and trust.

In like fashion, what do you know about the druggist to whom you may at a moment's notice have to confide orders for important medication?
